About the Instructors

All instructors have successfully completed the CMHA certificate and are approved to deliver the segmental retaining wall (SRW) installation modules. Course instructors include engineers, wall installation contractors, and manufacturing representatives who are experienced in the design and construction of SRWs. Our instructors' collective experience provides a strong understanding about the system components of an SRW structure.

About CMHA

The CMHA is the national trade association representing producers and suppliers of segmental concrete masonry industry. CMHA represents producers of segmental concrete masonry products throughout the United States and Canada, and serves international members throughout the world.
